The Iberian Peninsula, situated in southwestern Europe, has a long and tragic history marred by various societal issues. One of the darkest aspects of this region's past is the pervasive presence of pedophilia, a crime that has shattered the lives of countless innocent children. Unfortunately, the grim reality is that for many years, these vulnerable kids remained unprotected, subjected to unimaginable horrors. Today, we delve into this painful history to shed light on a topic often shrouded in darkness.

The Iberian Peninsula: A Historical Overview

Before we embark on this distressing journey, it is crucial to gain a better understanding of the Iberian Peninsula's history. Home to modern-day Spain, Portugal, Andorra, and Gibraltar, this region has been shaped by a rich tapestry of cultures and civilizations over the centuries.

From the Phoenicians and Romans to the Visigoths and Moors, each civilization has contributed to the complex and diverse societal fabric of the Iberian Peninsula. However, amidst this historical tapestry, a sinister and deeply disturbing pattern began to emerge: the exploitation of vulnerable children for sexual gratification.

Uncovering the Painful Reality: Pedophilia in the Iberian Peninsula

The prevalence of pedophilia in the Iberian Peninsula dates back centuries, with shocking accounts recorded throughout history. While it is challenging to pinpoint exact numbers or statistics, historical documents and testimonies provide glimpses into the widespread nature of this heinous crime.

During different periods, particularly in the Middle Ages and the Renaissance, powerful and influential figures were often involved in these despicable acts. Some members of the clergy, nobility, and even the ruling elite were known to prey on young boys and girls, exploiting their innocence.

The vulnerable position of children in society facilitated the perpetuation of these crimes. In a time when child protection laws were non-existent and societal norms allowed for the authority of adults to often go unquestioned, pedophiles found fertile ground to exploit their victims.

The Chilling Role of Institutions

Perhaps even more alarming than the prevalence of pedophilia within the upper echelons of society was the role of institutions in enabling and covering up these heinous crimes. From churches and orphanages to educational and social institutions, countless young lives were subjected to unspeakable horrors.

Authorities within these institutions often turned a blind eye, protecting the pedophiles within their ranks and choosing to silence victims rather than seek justice. The consequences of such widespread violations, not only within the Iberian Peninsula but globally, are immeasurable, as the trauma inflicted on these innocent children continues to reverberate through generations.

The Human Cost: Unprotected Kids and Their Long-lasting Wounds

Behind every statistic lies a real child, a life forever altered by the unimaginable pain of exploitation and abuse. The long-lasting wounds inflicted on these unprotected kids are deeply rooted and often extend far into adulthood, affecting their emotional, psychological, and physical well-being.

Survivors of pedophilia often struggle with post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), anxiety, depression, and a range of other mental health issues. Their ability to form healthy relationships and trust others may also be profoundly compromised, leading to a lifetime of internal suffering.

Furthermore, the generational impact of these crimes cannot be overstated. Children who have endured abuse are more likely to perpetuate the cycle of violence, perpetuating the devastating consequences of pedophilia for decades to come.

Shattering the Silence: Progress Towards Justice and Healing

While the history of pedophilia in the Iberian Peninsula remains a dark stain on its past, steps towards justice and healing have been taken in recent years.

Advocacy groups, survivors, and concerned individuals have worked tirelessly to bring attention to these crimes, demand accountability, and support survivors on their journey to recovery.

The implementation of child protection laws and the establishment of specialized organizations offering support services for victims have been critical in addressing the issue. By providing a platform for survivors to come forward, share their stories, and seek justice, society slowly moves towards a future where no child is left unprotected.

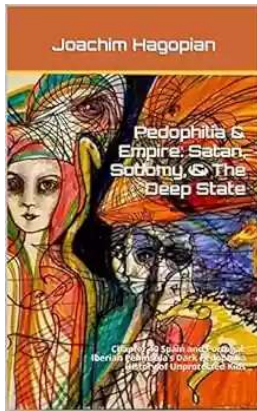

The Way Forward: Protecting Our Most Vulnerable

The exploration of the dark and painful history of pedophilia in the Iberian Peninsula is not meant to perpetuate a sense of hopelessness. Rather, it is a call to action, a reminder that the protection of our most vulnerable is a collective responsibility.

Through education, awareness, and diligent implementation and enforcement of child protection measures, we can create a safer environment for children. It is only through a commitment to ending the cycles of abuse and providing support and healing for survivors that we can truly ensure a brighter future, free from the haunting shadows of the past.

The Iberian Peninsula's history is fraught with pain and darkness, with the prevalence of pedophilia standing as a heartbreaking testament to the exploitation faced by countless unprotected children. By shining a light on this dark chapter, we stand united in the fight against pedophilia, determined to protect our most vulnerable and chart a future where such crimes are but a distant memory.

As of last year (2019) according to the Associated Press:

Spain has become the biggest entry point for unauthorized migration to Europe.

A particular entry point hotspot for sex trafficking is the Andalusia region of southern Spain where a vast majority of foreign national women and underage minors have been brought to work as sex slaves in the many roadside brothels dotting the agricultural landscape of Almería and Cádiz provinces. 90% of Spain's sex industry is comprised of largely undocumented refugees flooding into the country, controlled by the nation's criminal gang network.

Wherever the state has lost the trust of its citizens due to out of control corruption and incompetence, in the wake of the vacuum, organized crime has been allowed to thrive and flourish. Essentially the state has been co-opted by oligarchic crime bosses. With Spain's breakdown of institutional functions (along with virtually the entire world of over 200 nation states), be they a constitutional parliamentary monarchy as in Madrid or constitutional republic as in America, governance at the transnational (i.e., the UN, see Chapter 11; EU), national or local level across the board has become so infested with rampant, runaway corruption, graft, bribery and blackmail, organized crime and the Deep State have melded into one irreparably corrosive criminal mafia state that has only spread globally. This tragic yet all too accurate description of the state of the world today explains why illegal trafficking of drugs, arms, children, humans, their harvested organs/adrenochrome and trillions in laundered dirty money each year has reached such an unprecedented, off the charts scale today.

Stakes in this war between good and evil have never been higher and the forces of evil know they can only win with the complicit ignorance reinforced by mass media brainwash blinding the dumbed down masses, which is why this war's battleground is being fought over control of your mind. If good is to prevail, the informational flow of truth becomes imperative. As the expression goes, often misattributed to George Orwell – "in a time of universal deceit, telling the truth is a revolutionary, [and daresay criminal] act." Using oppressive censorship for total control over information and truth, and the 2010 Rockefeller Foundation Coronavirus pandemic playbook, today's globalized scheme is to rush through untested mandated vaccination worldwide, targeting the human genome and chromosome 8 in particular, designed to diabolically alter human DNA, lower intelligence and our immune system, and eliminate our God given capacity for empathy and compassion, which has been proven to be genetically linked.

There are more human slaves being trafficked on earth now than any prior time in human history. According to the 2000 UN Convention: [Human trafficking] is an act involving deception, a transfer to another country or place and exploitation that infringes on a person's liberty.

Whereas drugs and guns are typically sold and turned over for resale once or twice, in contrast during the course of one single 24-hour day, children/human sex slaves are typically sold many times over, forced to service 5 to 45 buyers per day, making sex trafficking the fastest growing, if not most lucrative and profitable organized crime industry on the planet, reaping an estimated $99 billion annually with 96% of the victims women and girls.
