

Red Platoon: The Riveting True Story of American Valor - An Inspiring Tale of Courage and Sacrifice

The courage and sacrifice displayed by our soldiers on the battlefield is often incomprehensible to those who haven't walked in their footsteps. In the annals of American military history, countless tales of valor and heroism stand out, each a testament to the unwavering dedication and selflessness of these brave men and women. One such mesmerizing account is that of Red Platoon - a true story of American valor that will leave you in awe and deeply inspired.

Set amidst the rugged mountains of eastern Afghanistan, the events surrounding Red Platoon serve as a poignant reminder of the perils our troops face daily in their mission to protect our freedom. Penned by Clinton Romesha, a Medal of Honor recipient and one of the survivors of the Battle of Kamdesh, this gripping narrative offers a profound insight into the harrowing experiences endured by the soldiers of Bravo Troop, 3rd Squadron, 61st Cavalry Regiment during that fateful October day in 2009.

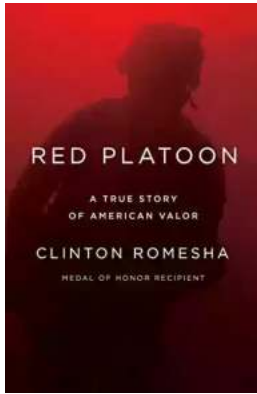

The Battle of Kamdesh was a 12-hour firefight that unfolded in the remote outpost of Combat Outpost Keating located in a valley surrounded by mountains, making it vulnerable to enemy attacks. Romesha, along with his comrades, faced overwhelming odds as they fought against waves of Taliban insurgents intent on overrunning the outpost.

THE NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER

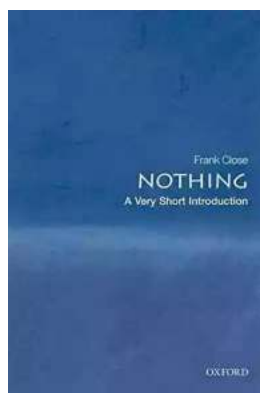

The only comprehensive, firsthand account of the fourteen-hour firefight at the Battle of Keating in Afghanistan by Medal of Honor recipient Clinton Romesha, for readers of Black Hawk Down by Mark Bowden and Lone Survivor by Marcus Luttrell.

“It doesn't get better.’ To us, that phrase nailed one of the essential truths, maybe even the essential truth, about being stuck at an outpost whose strategic and tactical vulnerabilities were so glaringly obvious to every soldier who had ever set foot in that place that the name itself—Keating—had become a kind of backhanded joke.”

In 2009, Clinton Romesha of Red Platoon and the rest of the Black Knight Troop were preparing to shut down Command Outpost (COP) Keating, the most remote and inaccessible in a string of bases built by the US military in Nuristan and Kunar in the hope of preventing Taliban insurgents from moving freely back and forth between Afghanistan and Pakistan. Three years after its construction, the army was finally ready to concede what the men on the ground had known immediately: it was simply too isolated and too dangerous to defend.

On October 3, 2009, after years of constant smaller attacks, the Taliban finally decided to throw everything they had at Keating. The ensuing fourteen-hour battle—and eventual victory—cost eight men their lives.

Red Platoon is the riveting firsthand account of the Battle of Keating, told by Romesha, who spearheaded both the defense of the outpost and the counterattack that drove the Taliban back beyond the wire and received the Medal of Honor for his actions.
