In through the nose, out through the mouth...

If only life were so easy for teen figure skating sensation Jacqueline Chevalier. Standing on Olympic ice, the audience bathed in silence and darkness, she is about to give the performance of her life. This is the culmination of all her years and years of self-sacrifice and hard work. No stranger to putting on appearances, Jacqueline's whole life has been played out as a spectacle for the world to watch. She has struggled to conform to her family's strict and unbending expectations.

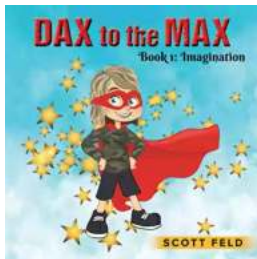

Now that she stands on the brink of adulthood, she longs to break away from it all to pursue her own dreams. As she struggles to figure out who she is, fame and fortune can't provide her with what she needs the most. She searches for a remedy to take away the aching loneliness that never leaves her - not even when she's standing in the middle of the rink being applauded by adoring fans.

Jacqueline aches to discover something she's only seen in her new friends, Brian and Grace. She embarks on a discovery of the meaning of love and hope in a place she never thought to look.
