The choices we make are the choices that make us.

Peace and prosperity have come to Introvertia at last. The end of the Dragon War, and the peace treaty with their ancient enemy Exclaimovia, have brought wealth and happiness to the kingdom of introverts. Yet change is coming, too. A new kingdom has been discovered to the west, practicing a kind of magic that neither Eza nor Cammie, nor anyone else in Introvertia, has ever seen before.

Change is coming, whether they want it or not...

With Eza and Cammie preparing to get married and move to Rushwind, Denavi is about to lose the house full of family that she's spent the last two years cherishing. What does her future hold? Will she ever be this happy again?

Since the war ended two years ago, Eza has been enjoying the peace and calm. The discovery of this new kingdom has upended everything. His mentor Gar won't stop bothering him to go on more adventures. Is there a way he can make everybody happy - or will he have to do what's best for him?

For Cammie, the move to Rushwind is full of uncertainty. Her theater company at Carnazon Fortress has been successful, but that was just a group of amateur students acting for fun. What will happen when she's in charge of a group that has to operate for profit? Is she up to the challenge?

Thirteen-year-old Iriza Dazen, Eza's Artomancy apprentice, faces her own choices. She's been invited to join the prestigious Dragon Academy, along with her best friend Caylen. Will her free spirit let her calm down enough to enjoy five years of school, or should she listen to Gar's urging and go on adventures of her own?

These stories and more weave together with the classic Introvertian blend of thoughtfulness, magic, action, and humor. The Opening Night Wedding serves as a bridge, bringing final closure to the events of the first five Introvertia books while introducing the characters, conflicts, and settings for the next three. After the frantic action of the Dragon War, readers will love the chance to spend more time in the Kingdom of Introvertia, daydreaming about what it would be like to live in a place where everyone was just like them!
