Exploring the Canon

Voices explores a wide range of modern American plays, from the introspective and poetic works of Tennessee Williams to the hard-hitting social commentaries of Arthur Miller. By focusing on a diverse selection of playwrights, Voices aims to capture the essence of the American experience from different perspectives. This comprehensive approach allows the project to showcase the incredible range of themes and emotions that make modern American drama so compelling.

Unveiling New Insights

One of the most exciting aspects of Voices is the fresh insights it brings to these renowned plays. Through careful analysis and creative reinterpretation, the project offers audiences new ways to connect with these classic works. Voices challenges traditional interpretations and encourages viewers to question preconceived notions, uncovering hidden layers of meaning and nuance in the process. The production team's dedication to research and artistic exploration ensures that each performance offers something truly unique and thought-provoking.

Engaging the Audience

Voices goes beyond the traditional boundaries of theater by actively engaging the audience in the creative process. Through Q&A sessions, workshops, and interactive discussions, viewers are encouraged to share their thoughts and insights, fostering an inclusive and collaborative environment. This active participation allows audiences to become a part of the artistic journey and gain a deeper understanding of the plays and their impact on American culture.

A New Chapter in American Theater

Voices represents a new chapter in the history of American theater, breathing fresh life into the works that have shaped the art form. By offering new interpretations and engaging audiences in an interactive and inclusive dialogue, Voices is pushing the boundaries of what theater can achieve. Through its dedication to artistic exploration and its commitment to capturing the diversity of the American experience, Voices is shaping the future of modern American drama and ensuring its enduring relevance.

The Decades of Modern American Drama series provides a comprehensive survey and study of the theatre produced in each decade from the 1930s to 2009 in eight volumes. Each volume equips readers with a detailed understanding of the context from which work emerged: an considers life in the decade with a focus on domestic life and conditions, social changes, culture, media, technology, industry and political events; while a chapter on the theatre of the decade offers a wide-ranging and thorough survey of theatres, companies, dramatists, new movements and developments in response to the economic and political conditions of the day. The work of the four most prominent playwrights from the decade receives in-depth analysis and re-evaluation by a team of experts, together with commentary on their subsequent work and legacy. A final section brings together original documents such as interviews with the playwrights and with directors, drafts of play scenes, and other previously unpublished material.

The major writers and their works to receive in-depth coverage in this volume include:

- * William Inge: Picnic (1953), Bus Stop (1955) and The Dark at the Top of the Stairs (1957);
- * Stephen Sondheim, Arthur Laurents and Jerome Robbins: West Side Story (1957) and Gypsy (1959);
- * Alice Childress: Just a Little Simple (1950), Gold Through the Trees (1952) and Trouble in Mind (1955);
- * Jerome Lawrence and Robert Lee: Inherit the Wind (1955), Auntie Mame (1956) and The Gang's All Here (1959).
