Are you happy with your life or would you like to change it? Are you bored with the order, when everything is planned, lined up and scheduled? There is only one step between ordinary and extraordinary. This step requires courage, the courage to give up certain things in life, things which are stable, familiar, predictable, maybe, dull, but secure. Stepping into unknown does not give any guarantees of successful outcome. No calculations can help. There are moments in life when you trust in the universe and recklessly jump into the abyss, imagining wings on your back. This step is dangerous and can be fatal. It can bring you luck and happiness and change the course of your life. Or it can hurt you, burn your wings, and your life will turn into a failure. But without risk there is no adventure. Everyone has a choice: spend your life in the safety of the habitual surroundings or in search of something new. It's up to you whether you want to stay in your comfort zone or take a risk and expand your horizons. This is a story of an adventure, a journey of metamorphosis of an ordinary creature standing firmly on the ground into a flying demon, exploring the universe.
